REPORTS

From China Relative to the Foreigners in Pekin Are Very Conflicting.

LATEST FROM THE CAPITAL

Tales of Butchery Are Afloat in Some Parts of the Kingdom, Still There Are Denials.

STORY WHICH THE RUNNERS TELL

SHANGHAI, July 7.—It is stated that the Boxers in Pekin besides murdering the foreigners, massacred 5000 native Roman Catholic converts, of whom 10,000 were known to be in the city.

Chinese refugees confirm the stories of foreigners being tortured in Pekin. The city is described as an inferno and the streets are said to be running with blood. Yang Lu, the commander of the Chinese troops in Pekin, who advocated milder measures, has been absolutely effaced by Prince Tuan.

The boxers are said to have stormed the British legation and turned it into shambles. Then according to the Shanghai correspondent, followed outrages on the women and horrible scenes of torture.

The latest news from Pekin that is reliable is nine days old.

SHANGHAI, July 7.—There is no longer any doubt that disaster has overtaken the Russian army of 3000 men who left Tien Tsin for Pekin under General Schell on June 11, with full field equipment, and the crown transport.

Nothing has been heard of the column in 25 days, and it is assumed they were overwhelmed by 30,000 Kanbus and Shensi troops, which are now at Lafa, menacing Tien Tsin.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The reports today from Pekin are very conflicting. Shanghai news says the slaughter of foreigners in Pekin, after a stubborn resistance of eighteen days, is confirmed. But a British firm at Shanghai cables the legations were safe July 3. American Consul Good, now cables today that runners report the foreigners were safe on the 3d.

LONDON, July 7.—There are reports that the foreigners in Pekin were safe Tuesday and it is now believed they have held out this long.

Japan will immediately rush 50,000 soldiers to Pekin with the consent of the powers, Japan to be paid for breaking up the rebellion and rescuing the foreigners.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

PAST WEEK SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN ALL LINES.

Bank Clearings For this Week Continue Very Large.—They Were 582,902.37.

The retail clothing trade has picked up very well since the recent rainy spell and is very fair.

Up to the last of May the volume of business was in excess of last year, but the last season cut into things at such a rate that it is now about a stand off.

The Fourth of July trade was good. One of the most prominent of our clothing merchants reports a substantial, satisfactory increase in his holiday trade this year, and the general run of business good, with splendid prospects for the coming season being a fine one.

The shoe men report a fair business, about up to the general run at this season of the year.

The Kentucky Furnace company is again running, and every thing is going satisfactorily with the prospects for the future very encouraging.

Orders for the output are coming in very well and shipments will soon be in earnest.

Friday and today's shipments alone will run a little over 400 tons.

An official of the company assured the "Sun" reporter that he felt much encouraged over the way things have been turning out the past few days and that they had no apprehension of the future.

The Paducah Furniture company has started their plant again with very good bookings of fall orders on the books, and the prospects for this season being equally as good as last year's when the company did the largest business in the history of the concern.

The wholesale food business is very good at present and has been for some time.

Mr. H. P. Hawkins, of H. P. Hawkins & Co., in conversation with the "Sun" reporter expressed himself as very well pleased with his business. He says it has been holding up splendidly all summer, and that in a comparison with the same time last year he finds his business has about doubled.

Other merchants in the same line expressed themselves in much the same way.

The river trade is good. All the boats seem to be doing a satisfactory business.

This trade, as any merchant will assure one, is a big thing for Paducah, and prosperity "along the streams" is reflected in our many wholesale houses.

The Mississippi river boats, however, do not seem to be doing as much as the Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland crafts.

The summer excursion business is very good, all the popular steamboats reporting passages booked, two and three weeks ahead.

This is just between season with the wholesale whiskey dealers and business, as usual, is quiet.

The jobbers, however, anticipate a splendid fall business and are shaping things to be able to handle their share.

The wholesale dry goods men report "summer dullness."

There has been a lull in the trade for some time, but future prospects are good.

Sales by local jobbers of drugs during the week were moderate, as is anticipated at this season of the year. There were few changes of prices and they were of no significance.

The volume of business done by the banks continues very heavy. Especially is this true of the counter business.

The reports issued the last of June to the stockholders showed all the institutions in the most prosperous and healthy condition, with earnings and deposits the largest in the history of all financial institutions.

Some of the banks even report an increase in deposits this week over last week.

The Paducah Banking company made a change in the officers last week. Mr. W. C. Ellis, who has been at the head of the bank for several years and who has been interested and very instrumental in the good success of the institution resigned the presidency on account of ill health.

Mr. Henry A. Petter, who has been a director and prominently connected with the bank for sometime, was elected to the vacancy. Mr. Petter is a young man of fine business ability and will prove a good man for the place.

Mr. Will D. Sanders, representing the Goldman Shoe Company, of Columbus, O., is back from his southern trip and reports the largest business he has ever done. He says the south is in a very prosperous condition with splendid prospects for the future, and business in plenty for the man with the right goods and best prices.

THE TOBACCO MARKET.

Prices continue about the same as last week, but show an increase of from 75 cents to $1 over last month and this time last season.

The stock on hand is reported low. Sales were held only one day this week, with Mr. Bornemann the principal buyer.

Tobacco men in general feel some better over the prospects for the new crop.

WIND-UP

Of the Kansas City Convention Came on Heels of Stevenson's Nomination.

THE CHOICE UNANIMOUS

Populists Say They Will Fuse, So That the Ticket Can Get Strength of Their Vote.

MR. BRYAN HAS MANY CALLERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7.—The Democratic National convention which assembled here on the 3d, is now a political historical incident. It closed its labors yesterday at 3:20 by adopting a sine die adjournment motion and soon the hordes of the great host of delegates and visitors was in motion. Today some linger, but it can be said that the body has dispersed.

The closing work of the convention was told yesterday. It was the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, for vice president. It was at 3:07 when the ballot was concluded which terminated in this result and Cleveland's mate was named as Bryan's mate.

Stevenson's vote was 559 1/2 on the footing up of the ballots by states, and when it was seen that but few votes were wanted to make him the choice over any and all of his competitors enough changes by state delegations were forthcoming to secure for him the nomination.

The declaration was made amid a great demonstration, on motion of Tillman.

The nominees were: Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois; David B. Hill, of New York; Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota; James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington; A. W. Patrick, of Ohio; Judge Carr, of North Carolina; Governor J. Walter Smith, of Maryland.

The majority withdrew before or during balloting and the selection of Stevenson was early a foregone conclusion.

Kentucky voted solidly for the Illinoisian.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7.—The Populists will not vote for Bryan and Towne in the west, but say they have agreed upon a practical fusion which will give the Democratic ticket all the Populist strength.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 7.—Nominee Bryan was visited today by many delegates to the Kansas City convention. To one crowd he said he was so tired from lack of sleep he couldn't make but a brief speech.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Called Session Held Last Night at the City Hall—Notes Paid off.

A called meeting of the school board was held at the city hall last night, with President Roddick and Trustees Weille, Utterback, Fuller, Terrell, Bauer, Lally, Leake and Rose present.

The object of the meeting was stated to be the disposal of the $10,000 note against the board representing, with the $430 interest, the balance due on the new school building. On recommendation of the finance committee the note was ordered paid.

Two notes given to the Grand Rapids School Furnishing Co., for $261.65 and $411.10 respectively, were also ordered paid.

Chairman Utterback, of the finance committee, stated that the payment of the notes would leave a $4000 deficit which the board was willing to carry if the board sanctioned it. Treasurer Terrell stated that as there had always been some question as to whether or not the board could borrow money, he had always given his individual paper in such cases. It was explained that the bank wanted the board's sanction only to be protected from a division of members on repaying the money. The sanction of the board was unanimously given and the board adjourned.

COUNCIL AROUSED

BY PROPOSITION OF PADUCAH'S RABBI TO RETURN TO

An Old Form of Church Rule Long Since Abandoned—Arguments Pro and Con on the Matter.

The Central Council of American Rabbis is in session in Buffalo, N. Y., with a large attendance. Among those present is Rabbi Enelow, of our city, of whom the Sun clips the following from the Express of the 5th inst:

Rabbi Enelow, of Paducah, Ky., read a paper on "The Historical Continuity of the Synod Among the Jews," which inspired a discussion that continued until the adjournment at 6:15 o'clock. It was an exceptionally able paper that raised the question: Shall the Israelites of America add to their present conference synod that shall make and enforce religious laws among the Israelites of the United States?

Rabbi Enelow pointed out that there is no uniformity in the Jewish service at present; each rabbi for instance, may have the Pentateuch read in his synagogue as often or as seldom as he pleases. The Kentucky rabbi showed that from the time of Moses until the time of the Sanhedrin that was convened in Paris by Napoleon the Great, and from then on down to the organization of the priest conference, there had never been a time where there was not someone who had charge of the religious affairs of the Israelites.

After Moses there was a body of elders, next came the priests, then the prophets, then the men of the Great Synagogue that was assembled in Jerusalem by Ezra and Nehemiah, and so down to the year A. D. 70, the era known as the Dispersion, when Jerusalem was destroyed by Titus and the Jews were dispersed to all parts of the world and were unable to carry on their religious services except under great difficulties. It was then, said Rabbi Enelow, that the synod fell into desuetude. "Why should we not now restore the synod?" he asked.

An animated discussion followed the paper, in which Prof. Mielziener of the Hebrew Union college, Prof. Deutsch of Cincinnati, Dr. Hirsch of Chicago, Dr. Sounschein of Des Moines, Ia., Rabbi Benjamin of New York, and Rabbi Phillipson of Cincinnati took part. All of the speakers were opposed to the idea of a return to the synod. It was said that the spirit of American Hebrews generally is against any such proposition. They do not like the idea of anything in the nature of an oligarchy, anything that would tend to restrict their religious liberty, their freedom to think for themselves. Prof. Mielziener said that in the Middle Ages the synod could enforce its decrees by excommunication and that the Israelites of the present time so abhor the idea of such ecclesiastical action that they would not give the power to any man or set of men to make such laws. It would be useless to make such laws, he added, as they never could be enforced in the face of the prevalent spirit among American Israelites.

When the discussion was discontinued, owing to the late hour, it was agreed that it should be resumed whenever a spare hour can be had during the present conference.

CAPT. JOHN O'BRIEN DEAD

A Long and Useful Life Ended at Noon—A Brief Biographical Sketch of the Deceased.

NO FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS YET

Mr. John O'Brien, one of Paducah's most prominent men, died suddenly about 12:25 this afternoon at his home 1001 Jefferson street, from congestion.

The deceased had been down town all morning, as usual, and about noon not feeling very well, which he ascribed to the excessive heat, he took a car and went home. He laid down for a few moments on the bed, and his son, Mr. Pat O'Brien, asked him if he didn't want a doctor. He replied that he did not as he would be better directly, but while his son was bathing his head he concluded he wanted a doctor, and Dr. Brooks was telephoned. Dr. Brooks came and administered a hyperdermic, saying it would require ten or fifteen minutes for it to take effect and relieve the patient. In less than ten minutes Mr. O'Brien was seized by something like a convulsion and in a few seconds had breathed his last, congestion causing his death. He was perfectly conscious up to the time the spasm seized him.

Mr. O'Brien had not been in good health since winter, when he had an attack of grippe. His illness was not deemed serious however. He had a mild attack about a week ago, and this morning when he began to feel ill thought it was only a slight attack similar to the other. From the time he reached home today until he died was not over twenty or twenty-five minutes.

Mr. O'Brien was a man of integrity and enterprise, and had done a great deal for Paducah. He was one of the best known as well as the most popular citizens, and his sad and unexpected death proved a great shock to them, many of whom saw and conversed with him in the forenoon.

Mr. O'Brien was one of Paducah's oldest and most prominent citizens, having resided here continuously since 1856. He was born in 1831 in Ireland, and was accordingly 69 years old. He came to this country with his parents, Patrick and Katie O'Brien, in early childhood, and the family first settled in Indiana, where the deceased grew to manhood and where his parents died. In 1856 he came to Paducah and for several years was engaged as a rectifier of spirits, subsequently as a street contractor and later a coal merchant. Mr. O'Brien was married in 1860 to Miss Katie Connor, of the city, who died in New Orleans several years ago while on a visit.

Several children survive him, Messrs. Patrick O'Brien, of the city, J. Richard O'Brien, Greenville, Miss., and William O'Brien of New Orleans and Mesdames John T. Doonvan of the city, James Cook, of Florida, and Miss Mamie O'Brien of the city.

The deceased was a member of the St. Francis De Sales church and a member of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America and did good work in raising funds and building the new church.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but it will not take place before Monday, and may be later.

There is to be a big conference of the leaders with Bryan Monday to try to smooth the rough places.

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1900.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM McKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

For Vice President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
Of New York.

What will the goldenrod Democrat do with his vote in November? Will he practice what he preaches? If so then he must vote for McKinley

Bryan will have to change 48 electoral votes to be elected president, admitting he will hold the votes he received in 1896. Where is he going to get this vote?

Many of the papers of the state are arguing that an instructed delegation be sent to the Democratic State Convention. This is an old dodge with the tricksters, and catches only the dull. To send uninstructed delegates to a body even as small as a district convention is only to place the pot-house politicians and shrewd manipulators in complete control of the public's privilege. "Speak for yourself, John," is a very good motto in politics as well as in love.

The partition of China, which this government wishes to frustrate, will be brought about by the criminal efforts of the Chinese themselves.

The question is, can the Democratic party, which is so divided on the silver question, be solidified on that issue now that the oracles have spoken? If not is not the fate of the divided house to be its end.

The managers of the lead, zinc and fluor lands in Crittenden, Union and Livingston counties are booming them extensively. Much of the stock of the companies behind these enterprises is on the market for sale to small investors, who are assured fine dividends. Bryanism will go into political history as a synonym for forlorn hope just as Goebelin has become indicative of all that is treacherous and malicious and therefore criminal.

An ex-Illinoisian who is now a Nebraskan and an ex-Kentuckian who is now an Illinoisian compose the Democratic national ticket. "Sectionally" they are all right, but politically they won't do for office and the people won't have them.

The fiscal year just ended shows the first surplus by revenue in the treasury of the United States since Cleveland was inaugurated. In 1893 the receipts were about $2,000,000 more than the expenditures. The largest surplus amounted to $85,000,000, in 1890, and the largest deficit was in 1894, when it amounted to $70,000,000. The present surplus mainly results from the big receipts from war taxes, but not entirely. The customs duty on imports is responsible for a small portion, and under a tariff framed by Republicans.

Hill in the last moments of the Kansas City convention got even with the delegation from his state which turned him down earlier in the work. When it was possible to secure the nomination for vice presidency and bring the party of the state into prominence, Hill said no and meant it when he said it. But previous to this turning his state delegation down he had had the satisfaction of posing and being recognized as the biggest man in the convention, and that he was undoubtedly this fair minded man must admit. Crocker must have felt like the small potato he was when Hill's every act was being watched and his every word cheered to the echo. Hill may be out of New York politics but he is not out of national politics, though a leader in an already good as defeated party.

The national canvass is made up and soon the state canvass will too be in order. There is one contest of interest in this section which should not be forgotten, and it won't be. The First congressional district, like the districts generally, must select a candidate for congress, and the Republicans therefore have a duty of much interest to themselves to perform. This duty is the naming of a candidate for congress and electing him to office. There is good material which the party can find, and having found it the voters will do the rest. The canvass approaching is one of great moment, therefore what is to be done must be well done. Let the party give the matter thought and then let it do its duty.

A THOUGHT.

So few people succeed greatly because so few people can conceive a great end, and work toward that end, and without deviating and without tiring. But we all know that the man who works for money day and night gets rich, and the man who works day and night for no matter, the poorer. It is the man with the deeper, more spiritual, as it seems, vaguer issues, which make for happiness and every intangible success. It is only the dreams of those light sleepers who dream faintly that do not come true.—Arthur Symonds.

Officers Installed.

The elective and appointive officers of the League of Lovers, L. O. O. F., were installed last night at their hall at Fifth and Broadway, and the semi-annual reports should be everything in a flourishing condition. The officers installed are: U. S. Walston, N. G.; J. T. Hutchins, V. G.; G. W. Oliver, R. S.; N. G.; J. W. Padley, L. S.; N. G.; J. G. Switzer, R. S.; V. G.; S. T. Brookshire, L. S.; V. G.; C. N. Roper, W. T. L. C. Rice, Con.; A. C. Mayers, R. S. S.; Samuel Robertson, L. S. S.; C. E. Renfro, L. G.; John McGarrigal, O. G.; Samuel Hill, chaplain. Messrs. P. J. Bechenbach, G. W. Oliver and S. A. Hill were appointed a committee for the ensuing year. It was announced that Hon. Chas. P. Hess, of Louisville, the grand master of the state of the organization, would visit the lodge next Friday night on official business.

Telling Fortunes in Tea Grounds.
A device on sale at some of the shops enables every woman to be her own fortune teller. It consists of a cup and saucer containing astrological and other signs of portents and mystery which future destinies may be read in tea grounds. From the superstitious and ignorant devices of the south to the learned and practical spinners of New England there is a peculiar reverence in the feminine mind for tea grounds, often partially concealed or wholly denied, but still there. A certain woman was the one always brought to read the fortunes of the family and their friends on her periodic visits to a large circle of nieces and nephews. At first she invariably refused to comply. At the second request she would glance longingly at her tea, then press her lips firmly together and shake her head in negation. In the end she always yielded, and it was difficult to say whether she or the young people enjoyed the reading the most. Professional or accomplished readers of fate in tea grounds may disdain the formally prescribed rules of the fortune-telling cup, but the amateur will find it helpful in groping her way to the interpretation of "fortunes" by this time-honored method.

When Macdonald Met Wales.
There have been many versions of the conversation said to have taken place between the prince of Wales and Gen. Hector Macdonald, when the latter returned to England after Omarura; but a correspondent, on the faith of a friend of the prince's, vouches for the following as being the correct version, says the London Chronicle. The prince asked "Fighting Mac" how it was that he had not met before. "Pardon me, sir, I think we have," was the reply. "Where can that have been?" asked the prince, surprised. "When you were in India, sir, I did sentry-go outside your tent." "But why was a sentry needed outside my tent?" The answer, which need not be reported here, caused his royal highness considerable amusement, but when he had regained control of his features he held out his hand, and said, "General Macdonald, you were doing sentry-go in 1875, and now you are a general in the British army. I am proud to have met you." Those who know the prince of Wales' felicity of phrase will have no difficulty in accepting the final remark, at all events, as authentic.

The Best Prescription for Malaria.
Chills and Fever is a bottle of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL-TONIC. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. No cure—no pay. Price 50c.

A Patriotic Woman.
Mrs. Anna Wittenmyer, who died recently at Saratoga, N. Y., raised and distributed during the war of the rebellion over $136,000 worth of supplies for the soldiers, and she often rode along the front line of battle in order to gather up and care for the wounded as they fell. She gained a national reputation as the organizer of the diet kitchen. It was while in the hospitals at Chattanooga, in the winter of 1863-64, that she carried out her plan for supplying food for the men whose condition in the hospitals was the most serious. The government furnished the staple articles, and the Christian commission provided the delicacies and cordials and the nurses to superintend the diet kitchen. These diet kitchens were first introduced in the department of the Cumberland and in that of the Mississippi, and with such excellent results that Mrs. Wittenmyer was urged to establish them in the army of the Potomac, which she did in the winter of 1864. This branch of the hospital service has become permanent, and is recognized by the government officials in this country as almost indispensable in time of war.

Piled Various Vocations.
R. D. Blackmore, "barrister-at-law and fruit-grower, author of 'Lorna Doone,'" left an estate of $85,000, of which only $46,000 was personality. As Mr. Blackmore was a man of some property before he took to writing books, and as his fruit-growing was a business and not an amusement, it is remarkable that he should have profited so little from one of the most successful of modern novels.

CHINESE FOOT BINDING.

Opposition Developing Toward That Ancient and Torturing Custom.

Some influential Chinamen are now advocating the abolition of that shocking and cruel custom of foot binding: so prevalent in the celestial empire. How common this custom is in China and how fatal to the welfare of the women is little appreciated in America. Some Chinese girls are permitted to go with unbound feet until they are 6 years old, when the time arrives for the bandaging process to begin, and the "golden heels," as these deformed feet are called, must be molded. The bandage used for this purpose is made of substantial webbing two and one-half inches wide. The process consists practically in doubling the toes and heels together, with the toes, except the big one, bent under. The women, when the object has been accomplished, and the foot is encased in the tiny shoe, stand upon the tip of the heel and the tip of the big toe. This, of course, cannot be accomplished at once, but it is the product of a long and torturing ordeal. At first the bandages are applied rather loose, but periodically they are drawn tighter and tighter, as the feet yield to the pressure of the webbing. The heel, when the foot is encased in the shoe, rests on a tiny platform of wood fitted above and behind the heel for that purpose. The suffering endured by the victim during the process is beyond description, and it is not an uncommon occurrence for outraged nature to protest, and such a diseased condition of the feet to ensue as to render necessary their amputation. Sometimes the children will not submit to the operation, and their obstinacy results in saving the feet. Many children cry through the long hours of the night and bring on various nerve troubles. The New York Tribune states that feet are bound to a smaller size in Foochow than in any other part of China, for the fashionable shoe is only two and a half inches long, and the consequent inches where the sole of the foot should be is about three inches deep. The feet of a Chinese woman wield an important influence over her life. When she is to be betrothed the size of her feet must be ascertained for the suitor, and great is the disappointment if the bride's feet prove larger than anticipated. When the wedding day arrives the bride draws the bandages as snugly as possible. The soles of the tiny shoes are purchased with holes ready to be cut in the wood near the border, in order that the wearer may embroider the shoes and stitch them to the wooden soles, for the women make their own shoes.

MACKEREL SCARED BY SHIPS.

Theory of the Fish's Disappearance by an Old Fisherman.

Of late years mackerel have not been seen off the eastern coast of Maine. One explanation was given by a prominent fisherman of Southwest Harbor, who said: "We used to catch mackerel by the thousands down our way years ago, but the warships scared them away. You know they run in schools, and once they get scared from a certain locality they never again run that way. That's the only reason I can find they don't come our way nowadays." Less is known about mackerel than of any other of our common food fish. It is known that the fish migrate northward in the spring and southward in the autumn, and that they are secret to all of our experts. In May an enormous school strikes the coast of Yarmouth, N. S. This school evidently is separate from the southern army that advances from the southern coast. From the size and general character of the mackerel off the Yarmouth coast it is believed that, as they have no connection whatever with the great schools from the south, they must come from out of the deep sea to the east. When the southern schools have advanced as far as Nantucket, they suddenly disappear, leaving no trace behind them. Then the veteran mackerel fishermen pick up their traps and repair to the bays indenting the Massachusetts coast, for it is there the mackerel will next appear, where they stay in more or less numbers until well into August. The roving habit of the mackerel is thus shown. Besides these general movements they have certain erratic habits that confound the fishermen and experts. They disappear from one place and reappear in the strangest manner. There is no accounting for these movements any more than there is in explaining their migrations. Old fishermen who have grown gray in the work say that the mackerel are the most mystifying of all our salt water fish. They have learned to read the signs of their coming and going, but they cannot explain them, nor can they account for their habits. They pursue them with a sort of intuition. One may be a good fisherman of other denizens of the deep in a short time, but to capture mackerel large experience is required.

SERVED IN DELFT AND SILVER.
Dutch Dinners Are Simple and Exceedingly Good.

Dutch dinners are not to be despised. They are almost as substantial as the Delft and silver in which they are served in families of means who respect tradition and treasure their hearth-rooms. The usual Dutch dinner is simple, but very good in the quantity of the food and in the manner in which it is cooked, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. Soup comes first, then fish, usually sole au gratin, with a brown sauce. The next course may be roasted veal, stuffed with chestnuts and garnished with rings of beet roots and lemon. The dessert is usually a pudding made of eggs and milk flavored with maraschino, adorned with dried cherries and served cold. Dutch puddings are usually cloyingly sweet, as the rotund Dutch housewife has a sweet tooth. The dinner table is not apt to be "decorated" with flowers or shined candelabra, fancy dishes or lace center pieces, but the napery, crystal and silver are sure to be handsome and perhaps of great value even in a family of modest means. And how the crystal sparkles and the plate gleams! The old stories of Dutch housewives are as true today as ever. With the dinner a great variety of vegetables is served and these are placed on tiny stoves on the table. The stoves burn a very fine peat, which has been brought to a uniform state of heat and is entirely free from any visible smoke. Every kettle and urn brought to the table is kept hot by a wee stove of its own. After dinner black coffee is served. It is "stirred as death and sweet as youth."

RAILROAD NOTES.

Illinois Central Officials Have Returned to Louisville.

Superintendent W. J. Harahan, Roadmaster L. A. Downs and other Illinois Central officials left on a special train for Louisville yesterday afternoon. They found the heat here pretty bad, and when they left were loaded with straw hats and had purchased wide straw hats for the occasion.

It is probable that the hospital addition will not be built until cool weather. Owing to the delay in plans it could not be begun in the spring, as was first intended.

The Illinois Central is diverting a great deal of export traffic to New Orleans instead of New York. Cotton and tobacco are among the chief commodities, as well as wheat and corn. A great deal of business is going to Cuba via this line.

The Illinois Central will soon connect with the Tennessee Central at Clarksville.

Dispatcher J. B. Alvey mashed the end off the second finger on his right hand in a revolving chair a night or two ago, but is able to work.

The Weather

The thermometer this afternoon at 2 o'clock registered 97 in the shade. The weather indications are for continued fair and warm weather with possible showers in the north.

The ladies of the Broadway Methodist church will give a moonlight excursion on the Bettie Owen Monday evening. Fare for round trip only 25 cents. Tickets can be had at the boat or from any of the ladies. 73c
